

Bill Penuel

Research Coordinator, John W. Gardner Center for Youth and Their Communities

Director of Evaluation Research, Center for Technology in Learning, SRI International

Bill Penuel has been a research scientist at the Center for Technology in Learning at SRI International since 1996. Currently, Bill holds a joint appointment as Director of Evaluation at the Center for Technology in Learning and as research coordinator at the John W. Gardner Center for Youth and Their Communities (JGC) at Stanford University. As the research coordinator at JGC, Bill provides strategic consultation and methodological support for research activities undertaken by JGC staff and students.

Bill holds a B.A. in psychology from Clark University, an Ed.M. in counseling processes from Harvard University, and a Ph.D. in developmental psychology from Clark. A specialist in the study of the implementation and effectiveness of innovations in schools and community-based organizations, he has also written about teacher professional development, youth involvement in research, and processes of youth-adult collaboration in program planning and development.