

Katrina Brink
Program Associate

Katrina has over 6 years of experience in the nonprofit sector with a focus on policy and settings that have an effect on youth. She brings to JGC a commitment to fostering strong working relationships and creating structures for collaboration among JGC staff and with their community partners. From her most recent work with the Child Welfare Co-Investment Partnership and in the Education Program at the Stuart Foundation, Katrina brings a state level systems change perspective to local JGC efforts. Katrina also has worked closely with the Summer Youth Program at Northern California Grantmakers and with other education and advocacy groups interested in providing youth with opportunities to actively learn and contribute to their communities. In 2006, Katrina participated in Coro Community Leaders Program which focused on leadership across multiple sectors, industries, and issues. She holds a BA in Comparative Literature with a focus on literature in Spanish from the University of Wisconsin Madison.
