

Sebastian Castrechini

Policy Analyst

Sebastian Castrechini has experience from a variety of roles related to education. He has worked as a practitioner, teaching high school social studies in the Baltimore City Public Schools and serving as assistant principal at Excel Charter Academy in Los Angeles. Sebastian has also worked in educational research and evaluation as a research analyst for Policy Studies Associates, Inc., in Washington, DC, and in educational policy analysis with the Boston Higher Education Partnership. Sebastian received his Master's in education policy from the Harvard Graduate

School of Education and his BS in Secondary Social Studies Education from Penn State University.